

Chapter V

As you peel away your resistance and let go of your separateness from God, your hearts shall truly be opened.

Beloved One, we are all one.

IT IS with open eyes that you may see into another's soul. Peel away the veil that covers your eyes from truly seeing. For it is in the 'seeing' that you shall be able to be of service to one another. All judgements, resentments and anger shall fade away, for they are not in truth. Open your hearts, let them be pure, for in so doing you are being of the greatest service to one another.
