

Let go of all your fears and put your trust in the Divine Source and guiding light which will lead you gently into a new awakening.

The time has come to relinquish all old patterns and expand with joy and light into a new threshold of bliss.

release

IT IS time now for release. Really understand what this means. It is a total letting go of old and negative energies that have been invading your aura for many lives. Until you release all the old attachments you cannot step firmly into the light. Hanging on to these past thoughts and feelings that are residing in your Emotional Body is holding you back. You may feel that the familiarity of the past is comfortable to be with, but to step forward clearly and openly with the intention to release will open new doors for you.