

[CHAPTER FIVE]

Life's journey

AS YOU see your life spread before you, you will see the signposts also ahead of you. With clear eyes you will recognize the signs and know truly which way to turn. It is only in the fog that comes from your mind that these signposts become hazy and in some cases totally obliterated. It is at these times when you fumble and feel your way desperately seeking for help.